All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

We welcome this week Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Watson home from a two years' travel in Europe.

Up to the time of writing, the great and general court of Massachusetts is still in session pending a settlement of differences between his Excellency the Governor and the lower branch of the legislature.

Home politics and the Cuban question are disturbing the nation at this time and the situation might be materially relieved by giving the Colonels a couple of our disengaged naval vessels, invite him to take possession of Cuba and declare himself monarch. His fate might be like Maximilian in Mexico.

The "Great and Glorious Fourth" will be here in about four weeks and there will be something doing in Weymouth. Our magnificent rivers and harbor will present a lively appearance according to plans being made. The people at the landing are preparing home attractions on an extensive scale and many things are being done in other parts of the town.

Weymouth Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade held its last meeting of the season at the Clapp Memorial building last night and it proved to be a meeting of unusual interest.

At 4:35 the large number of members and invited guests who had assembled were invited to the main hall where a banquet of roast beef, mashed potatoes, peas, los, cake, rolls and coffee awaited them and at its conclusion, the president, E. W. Hunt opened the second feature of the night with a greeting to members and guests and an appeal for lively action in a further development of Weymouth.

Mr. Hunt planned for a meeting of more than ordinary interest and certainly exceeded his own expectations.

Quincy was well represented on the list of speakers and Mayor Eugene R. Stone headed the list with greetings from his city. He spoke of the close relations of Weymouth and Quincy in regard to improvement and further development of natural advantages cooperation should be the battle cry. A co-operation of the different parts of Quincy in legislative and other work had given the new court house, state and national appropriation of $825,000 for sundry work on land and water and the great difficulty was the mass of people knew but little of what was being done in their own town or city. He was going to have a day of "Seeing Quincy" and have the people devote a day to sight seeing at home and the same thing might be done to advantage in Weymouth wake the people up to a knowledge of our factories, water front and other matters of interest.

Charles E. Hearns, pres. of the Quincy Board of Trade was the next in order and gave a very interesting talk on "doing things". The Board of Trade was a large factor in developing individuals as well as promoting industries.

Frank F. Crane the "sleep water way man" spoke of Weymouth's water advantages had given Weymouth advantages unsurpassed on the Atlantic coast and with proper effort fifteen years hence would see Weymouth a sea port for ocean going craft and if Weymouth people were wise they would take the initiative in establishing a municipal wharfage.

Ex. Mayor Hall of Quincy spoke of still more extensive work among the various Boards of Trade in Norfolk County and joint action of the several boards.

The South Weymouth Improvement society was represented by its president, Walter L. Bates, Lovell's Corner Improvement society by its president, Frank N. Blanchard and the Citizens' Club of the Landing by Lawrence A. Traiman.

W. H. Pratt, F. H. Torrey, G. L. Barnes, W. W. Pratt and Geo. E. Bicknell were appointed as delegates to the deep water way convention to be held at New London in September.

Louis A. Cook brought up the matter of Old Home Week for which the town voted $200 at the March meeting and placed the matter in the hands of the Historical society but up to date nothing has been done and at his suggestion it was voted to place the matter in the hands of the president of the Board of Trade for further action.

At 10 o'clock after one of the most interesting meetings of the season the Weymouth Board of Trade adjourned until its regular meeting in September.

These dates are now in the minds of all citizens of the Old Colony district. But how many people who see them stop to realize what remarkable changes have taken place in the history of the town of Abington and also in the history of the world since 1712. In these 200 years the world has progressed more than at any other known period. A study of the different methods of lighting in these past 200 years shows the same progress. In the early part of the 18 century all cooking was done over an open fireplace and the light for reading was obtained from a candle or a torch. Contrast these crude methods with the methods of today. Now in a large percent of the homes which can be reached by a gas main, gas is used for both cooking and lighting. There are now in this district some who do not enjoy the advantages of a modern fuel because they do not want to make a change. It would pay them to investigate the matter in order that they may be prepared to enjoy 20th century methods of cooking and lighting.

WEDDING BELLS ARE RINGING.

Gladness In The Air! Brides, Sweet Graduates and Roses Are In Evidence.

The revolving wheels of time have rolled the seasons along and brought us once more to June and with it the time of bridges, sweet graduates and roses and the June of 1912 promises to be equal to any of its predecessors in either or all of the above features, but we make a special feature of nuptial events.

Jewell—Pierce.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Pierce, 121 Webb street, was the center of attraction to a large circle of their friends and relatives Tuesday evening and the attracting feature was the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Maud to Mr. Albert Lewis Jewell of Somerville.

White and green were the decorations of the home and the artists, Franklin P. Whitten and Lyman C. Williams, made a telling effect with flowers, vines and other foliage, especially so were the large parlors and the floral bell beneath which the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Rufus H. Dix of the Unitarian church.

The bride was charmingly attired in ivory satin dress with pearl embroidery and shadow lace trimming and carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley.

Miss C. Louise Cowing of East Braintree was maid-of-honor and wore white embroidered voile and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Charles E. Fuller of Somerville was best man.

A brilliant reception and refreshments followed the marriage ceremony and in the receiving line were the bride and groom, maid-of-honor and best man, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell, father and mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell, father and mother of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fuller of Somerville.

The ushers were Carlton Brown of Weymouth, George M. Davis and Alfred L. DeNoys of Somerville and George A. Wood of Dorchester.

New York, Boston, Newton, Quincy, Hingham, Cohasset, Hull, Arlington, Braintree, Somerville and all parts of Weymouth were represented by the ushers.

The wedding gifts were numerous and of many and varied. After a brief wedding trip the newly wedded couple will spend the summer at Kenbertha, Hull.

Leary—Sullivan.

Miss Nellie Gertrude Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. John Sullivan of East Weymouth and John F. Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leary of South Weymouth were married Wednesday afternoon at 5:45 at the parochial residence East Weymouth, by Rev. James W. Allison, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church of East Weymouth. The bridegroom was Miss Alice Morton of East Weymouth, the groom's brother, Charles Leary, was best man. The bride was attired in white satin, trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

LLOYD'S EYEGLASSES AND SPECTACLES

Kryptok Bifocals

Are Far and Near Glasses in a single pair. Another reason why Kryptoks are steadily displacing cemented bifocals is:—All cemented bifocals have a patch at the lower end of the glass, which looks queer and oddish. Kryptoks have no such patch nor anything odd looking.

Optimistic.

We should be optimistic and strive to see the glory of the sun.

And thank the Lord for his favor.

Time we lost is from the frown

The way so many people do.

My eyes are always looking down,

And I was always a son and blue.

The wine of life is so dry and say,

I am optimist to-day.

My early radish are in the cup.

We should rejoice that we are here

And bear our lots with patience

—sweat.

We ought to dry the bitter tear

And smile at every one we meet.

The world is good and men are kind,

There's every reason to be glad.

For every cloud has a silver lining,

That makes us sad.

I am an optimist to-day,

With high up high I shout, "Hurrah!"

My lettuce has begun to sprout!

I've used to be a pessimist,

I have no patience with the crew

of men who every day insist,

That life's intolerably poor.

They might as well drop their ashtrays

As I do, and the same as I!

And ought to glory in a smile

And cease to frown and cease to sigh:

They ought to give fate blow for blow,

Refusing the right to dictate what so

What it makes us are up an inch!

My early beets have got sprout!

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

in local applications, as they cannot reach the deepest part of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. There is a case of an infant born deaf, the number one of the Eustachian tube.

When this tube is inflamed you have a swelling sound or imperfect hearing, but the tube is not closed, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, there is no cure.

It is not an easy task to cure deafness, but it can be done by Catarach, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the ear.

It will cost One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarach) that cannot be cured by Hall's Cataract Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Whilst and hoe, save as you go; Old age won't be so dull then, you know.

The man who is late with his planting this year isn't so far behind the other fellows, after all.

Keep the cultivator going; the corn until out in tassel. Shallow—please! About two inches deep is right. Muzzle the horses and they'll work better.

A fumigation with burning sulphur will get rid of both vermin and disease germs in the poultry house.

Do not expect satisfaction from bordeaux mixture that has stood for as much as twenty-four hours. It deteriorates quickly.

Some people think that the dry cow needs no care, but those that make the best records have the best care during their period of rest.

The great majority of farmers do not know the value of the harrow, or if they do they do not use it.

Cultivate rhubarb, bush fruits and other perennials all through the summer to keep down weeds and to preserve a mulch for holding moisture. Fall growth through the summer means larger crops the following year.

A stanchion holder is natural for the cow at calving time. When the cow freshens do not attempt to relieve theudder of all the milk at once. Milk her partially dry three or four times each day for the first day or two.

In mowing land for the first time in the season it is recommended that the mowing machine should not be set so as to cut too close. If cut too close the weeds are liable to get the start of the grass.

The farmer who can tell just what it costs to produce and market a crop is not so very common, but when you do find such a man you find one who is a success.

If you must buy cows, put all your purchase money together and purchase one extra good animal rather than two or three common ones. Money invested in a good dairy cow will return good interest while with poor or common cows there is often doubtful profit.

If a farmer is obliged to plant on land not enriched as he would like to have it, he can produce part of the effect of increased manure by thorough tillage to destroy weeds, and give the crop the full benefit of what plant food the soil contains. This is better and cheaper than heavily manuring land and allowing weeds to get most of the benefit.

Apple trees that are heavily loaded with green, young fruit should have the fruit thinned about this time. Among the principal reasons for thinning the fruit are: It maintains the vigor of the trees; it helps to secure annual crops instead of crops on alternate years, which sometimes occurs if a tree is burdened too much one year, and it causes the fruit produced to be of maximum size, color and quality.

The fallacy that salt is essential to the healthy growth of asparagus has long been understood as existing by those who understand the wants of the asparagus plant's roots. For years there was an impression that asparagus beds should be salted with due regularity, as it was said that the plant in its native state was indigenous to salty swamps, and that when grown in other soils this salt should be artificially supplied. This has been found to be not necessary, and now, when an experienced asparagus grower is seen to salt his beds in the spring or through the summer, it is for an entirely different purpose than to stimulate the growth of the plants. It does it to keep the weeds down, as salt kills weeds and does not injure asparagus.

The old theory of the necessity of digging potatoes in the fall has at last been dissipated as a needless and imprudent task. This all happens because of the discovery of the farmers around Monarch, Mont., who are just now getting their tubers out of the ground and are selling them for prices which, compared with those offered last fall around Monarch, look like they have discovered the goose of the golden egg fame. When this story first reached the people of the city they declared some had crossed his wires. But about that time one of the heavy taxpayers of the country, A. T. Luther of Monarch, came to the city and brought with him more than a peck of fine tubers as ever were exhibited there and he declared he had dug them on May 21st as the crop of 1911. He has more than 100 bushels, he says, and his neighbors confirm every detail of his statement. Not only has Mr. Luther's potatoe bed had not been dug from where they grew, but he also shows carrots, beets and rutabagas, and all are exceptionally fine.

We wouldn't advise leaving a large lot of potatoes in the ground over winter until this has been thoroughly tried in this locality. It is however worth trying on a small scale—Ed.

Shoe Industry.

The prospects of the retail shoe business are brightening, as seasonable temperature has become more frequent. Dealers report more interest by consumers in white and tan goods, and the stores are giving them as much prominence as possible in order to get stocks moving. More and more the influence of hosiery of corresponding color and shade is being utilized to help secure sales and most shops show harmonious goods.

While retailers are anxious to rid their shelves of any kind of seasonal goods, they are especially disposed of moving the strictly "warm weather" lines; the pumps and oxford to take the places of the high shoes when they are being worn. It is hoped that the sale of white goods for women will include both highgains and pumps, and dealers consider no woman correctly outfitted who has not both styles, but if it is a case of choice, the low shoe will be pushed, for the high topped boot can be worn at the other end of summer, if not now.

The season of tan men is well inaugurated, and retailers are well satisfied at the way they are going out. There is a slight demand for dull blacks from conservative gentlemen, but the sale of tans is general. White goods for men are largely confined to customers who have plenty of time to spend on piazzas and lawns. As a practical everyday shoe for men the white article is not considered. Men are more conservative as to their shoes than women, and the tan shoe, even, is considered a little too ultra by some.

The attempt a few years ago to make "ox blood" popular was a dismal failure, and it has not been attempted. The tan shoe is almost as fast from black as the average man cares to go, but if he is becoming reconciled to that color very rapidly and widely.

A man enjoys a shining shoe, so the drift toward shiny leathers is natural, especially for fall and winter, and the manufacturer of patent leather goods is growing steadily, while the output of bright leathers is increasing.

So far applicators have been light at the factories for the season is early. The orders for next season are not enough to keep the plants very active.

Shoe dealers cause their delay in ordering for fall by the ground that they do not know what the popular taste will be.

They are trying to select the summer shoe.

There is a choice between high and low, and the more stilettos, and lower toe, adopted as the characteristic for this season. They will make up their minds by and by, and then there will be a rush to the factories, and a busy season is expected before the fall and winter shoes are delivered.

Talk Happiness.

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough without your woes. No part is wholly rosy.

Look for the places that are smooth and clear.

And speak of those to rest the weary ear: Of earth, so hurt by one continual strain of human discontent and grief and pain.

Talk kindness. The world is better off with it.

Your uttered ignorance and morbid doubt, If you have faith in God or man or self.

Say so; if not, push back upon the shelf of your mind all that is well with you, and then come to God, and let him share your words and make them true.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by complete removal of the disease.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running nose, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, there is no hope.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Cataract) that cannot be cured by Hall's Cataract Cure.

If there is anything left out of this issue which should have been in it, our apology is lack of time and space and in two instances failure to connect with the "Children's Sunday" exercises.

Well, it has come at last. His Excellency the Governor has sheathed his scalping knife and pronounced the legislature, and a review of the season's work will show many good things in bills passed, many good deeds in bills consigned to the grave yard, and, sad to relate, something done which it were better for posterity and the tax rate to have left undone.

The law does not allow children at school to use in common a drinking cup, mug or long handled dipper, but they manage to drink from hats, old tin cans or almost anything at the public fountains.

Notice to the Public.

A report has been circulated about town by J. Herbert Walsh that I asked the committee of the Fourth of July celebration a rental of $25 for the Bates opera house for a moving picture and vaudeville show to be given for the benefit of the Fourth of July fund. This report is false in every particular. I offered Mr. Walsh, who represented himself as authorized by the committee, the use of the hall, and the offer still remains open. In fact, the offer I considered that I was in reality giving $25 toward the fund.

Town Business.

Failing to get the desired reduction in lighting rates to enable them to put in all the lights asked for at the town meeting the selectmen have decided to refer the lighting question to the Gas & Light Commissioner of the state.

Five additional cars of street oil will be landed at each of the railroad stations in town.

On July 1st the selectmen will give a hearing on the petition of Joseph White and others for the laying out of a new town way from Bridge street to tide water.

At a meeting of the selectmen on Monday, the petition was granted to parties at the Loring to have a street parade on the morning of July 4th and also to erect a stand in Washington and Lincoln squares for the day.

The spacious dining room of the church is admirably adapted to the next feature, as all found room to enjoy an elaborate lunch which was served by an efficient corps of waiters and during the lunch the celebrated female orchestra of Miss Mabel Goings, of Boston, entertained with a fine program of music.

A closing feature of which many availed themselves, was the privilege of a visit to the bride's home to view one of the largest arrays and in many instances rich and rare wedding gifts which has been seen in town.

Other gifts of the occasion were: The groom's gift to the bride was a gold chain and pendant set with aquamarine stones. The bride gave the matron of honor a gold vanity set, and the bridesmaids received pearl chains. The organist received a jamb pin of rhinestones and sapphires, while the flower girl received a gold bracelet and chain. The groom to the best man and master of ceremonies gold stickpins with pearls and sapphires. The ushers received gold stickpins and sapphires.

After a tour of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Spinnell will settle in their new home on Hawthorne street, East Weymouth.

Graduates and Roses Are in Evidence.

The revolving wheel of time have rolled the seasons along and brought us once more to June and with it the time of birds, sweet graduates and roses and the June of 1912 promises to be equal to any of its predecessors in either or all of the above features, but we make a special feature of musical events.

Hill—Donovan.

Miss Martha Agnes Donovan of Boston, a former resident of East Weymouth, and Herbert Hill of Roxbury, were married on Tuesday at the parochial residence of Rev. William O'Connor of St. Paul's church of Dorchester.

The bridegroom was Miss Tessa B. Conroy of East Weymouth and the best man was Hugh O'Neill of Roxbury.

The bride was gowned in white marquisette over blue muslin, trimmed with passementerie. She carried a bouquet of blue roses. The bridegroom wore white silk muslin trimmed with lace.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom in Roxbury. After a trip to New York and other eastern cities, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will reside at 49 Center street, East Weymouth, where they will be among their friends in October.

Spindly Totman.

The most brilliant social event of the season took place at the Congregational church, East Weymouth, Wednesday evening, when Miss Eleanor Binney Totman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas B. Totman, became the bride of Burgess Harris Spindly, son of Mrs. and Mrs. L. B. Spindly, of East Weymouth.

The wedding ceremony was scheduled for 8:15 but long before that time hundreds of people had gathered in the vicinity of the church to see what they could see and the long beautifully decorated covered arch extending from the street to the church was the admiration of the crowd. The color scheme of the interior decorations of the church were pink, green and white and nothing which high art could reach was left undone.

The ushers were J. Walter Totman, E. Arthur Cole, J. Walter Kimball, Gideon Murray, Jr., Harold W. Raymond and John House, and from 7:30 to 8 o'clock were decided busily receiving and seating the many invited guests who, as the anxious moments went by, were admirably entertained by Miss Ethel F. Raymond with organ selections.

Promptly on time Rev. Walter H. Commons, who was to perform the ceremony, took a position beneath an elegant arch of green and white, erected in front of the alter.

The groom, accompanied by his brother Cecil S. Spindly, best man, were next to put in an appearance and then came the wedding guests and the wedding party in the following order: usher as master of ceremonies, bridesmaids—Miss Edith and Miss Nellie Williams, combs of the bride, costume in white, Miss Gwen Pease with pink chiffon roses. Miss Gwen Pease, Hoffman, a charming flower girl dressed in white and carrying a basket of sweet pearl and Kilkenny roses which were arranged along the path of the bride and groom. Harry Burton, the sister of the bride, dressed in yellow satin with gold lace trimmings and sash on the arm of her father, the bride who at once became the observed of all observers. Her costume was white, duchess satin trimmed with princess lace. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of blue roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the ceremony was the doublet Episcopal ceremony.

A reception in the parlors of the church followed the ceremony with the bridal party and fathers and mothers of the bride and groom in the receiving line.

THIRTY-THREE YEARS AGO.

Mr. S. H. Sunt, optician of Weymouth, has secured the contract for furnishing the city of Boston with fireworks on the Common, also Medford and other public places.

The examination of schools is now going on, showing faithful work on the part of the teachers and scholars. South Weymouth may well boast of its corps of teachers.

At the regular meeting of Division 9, A. O. H., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Fennell; Vice President, Michael Reddy; Recording Secretary, Daniel Galager; Financial Secretary, Thomas F. Collier; Treasurer, Daniel Reddy.

Capt. Josh Phillips of the good sloop Hardscrabble, will convey the Amity club of Weymouth, about 30 in number, to the regatta at Marblehead next Wednesday. The sloop will leave Weymouth tomorrow night and the club will march to Jackson's wharf in full uniform, accompanied by White's band.

B. H. Bowker has been in the employ of the Weymouth Iron Co. for 18 years past, driving a team of oxen. Mr. Rowker is one of the oldest ox teamsters in Norfolk county, having commenced driving at the age of 15. He has worked for four parties only: George Curtis, E. Y. Perry and Tirrell & Blanchard of Hanover, and the Weymouth Iron Co.

On his return to America he filled several pastures in and about Boston, and in 1882, was chosen pastor of the church at East Weymouth and for many years filled that position, and on leaving, took with him the love and respect of a large circle of people with whom he had been associated.

Evening of Enjoyment.

Percy F. Baker gave many friends a rare evening's enjoyment at the Bates' opera house last Friday night. The entertainers were the Pilgrim Male Quartet of Boston which is composed of the following artists: Robert Fitzgerald, 1st tenor; Everett S. Glimes, 2nd tenor; Percy F. Baker, baritone and William Gustafson, bass.

The quartet had as assistants Ruth M. Tammany, soprano soloist; Nina B. Wilbur, reader and impersonator, and Hazel Irene Glines, accompanist.

The program arranged was one of rare excellence and every number called for an encore.

The quartet sustained its well earned national reputation as being among the very best now before the public.

As a reader and impersonator, Miss Wilbur demonstrated her ability to grasp various characters and impersonate them to the very letter.

Miss Tammany was in excellent voice and showed the result of careful study and training and her selections and rendering received most favorable comments from musical critics for which Weymouth and East Braintree are celebrated.

Not only as a whole did the quartet prove his ability to go before an audience and carry it away with him. Mr. Baker adapted himself to "Toreador's Song" captured his hearers and was obliged to respond with other selections and the same is true of other members of the quartette as they appeared in solos.

Crescent Lodge, No. 82, I. O. O. F., Wompatuck Encampment No. 18 and Steadfast Rebekah Lodge, No. 98 of East Weymouth joined in their annual memorial exercises last Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

There was a large attendance of members of the several organizations and others not members. The services consisted of scripture reading, prayer by Rev. Walter H. Commons; "Jerusalem, the God" and "Spirit of God" by the choir quartette; solo, "Come Unto Me," Miss Eusebie Litchfield and singing by the pastor Rev. George A. Grant, S. T. D., who summed the whole matter of a lofty life in an exemplification of the "Christ Life."

Henry C. Pratt, chaplain of Crescent Lodge, in his necrology, paid a tribute to Charles W. Rice, Charles H. Pearce, Edward Q. Litchfield, Henry T. Bicknell, James M. Brent and John Q. Bicknell, members of the order who have died in the past year.

The Children's Day exercises at this church were well arranged and well attended. The church was decorated with flowers, flags and bunting. The day's theme was "Children's Day and Our Day." The acting pastor, Rev. James Bessan, spoke to the children and the Sunday school exercises were in charge of the superintendent, Mr. Gilmore, and Mrs. E. R. O'Neill, with songs and recitations by the following members of the

CHAPTER XV.

THE ANGEL GOES FOR HELL.

I SEE now you aren't the same man," said the angel. "You know, we're in Colorado this year, and there was a cowboy that was the handsomest man I ever saw. He'd come riding up to town every day, and we girls just adored him. Oh, but he was a beauty!"

"Then the angel shot a parting glance at Black Jack, and she was bewitchingly lovely.

"You won't forget that ride and the red tie," she half assented, half quaffed.

Black Jack leant his head entirely on his pale satin ribbon, and noticed that she had lost her hat. His lips tightened in an ominous quiver. He left her and picked up the wheel. As he had surmised, he knew it. This, then, was Freckles' Swamp Angel.

There was trouble in the Limberlost, and she had broken down in riding fit. Mrs. McLean had come to help the peasant farmer, and the angel helped to pull him up. Then he put the boy to speed and raved for a mile.

The angel, left alone, lay still for a second, then shivered and opened her eyes.

"Stop her!" cried Wessner. "Keep her till we're loaded anyhow. Can't you see that when this thing is found out there'll be to rain all of us. If you let her go every man of us has got to run, and some of us will be caught."

Jack sprang forward. Freckles' heart snuffed up in his throat. The angel seemed to divine Jack's coming. She was humming a little song. She deliberately stopped and began pulling the heads of the curious grasses that grew all about her. When she straightened, she rode backward and forward again. "Freckles, the Bird Woman wants that natural history pamphlet returned. It belongs to a set she's trying to have bound."

It does not stain or polish or hardwood floors, pianos, organs, furniture, carpets, rugs, straw matting, gilt frames, glass or metals. It is unexcelled as a spray for linoleum and oilcloths.

Sure death to bed bugs, buffalo gnats and ants, water bugs, roaches, fleas, ticks, mites, bed bugs, lice, etc. Insists death to live on hens and chickens, horses and cattle. It has also proved excellent on human beings for vermin. On horses and cattle it will keep the flies away from five to eight hours while in the pasture or barn. Apply by atomizer or sponge.

DIRECTIONS
Fill atomizer two-thirds full, always leaving screw cap loose, half turn for vent. For spraying floors, carpets, rugs etc., hold handle with one hand, stationary at your side, then swing atomizer with other hand with a swaying motion from left to right, moving cylinder back and forth on rod, forcing spray lightly on object, and sweep off with corn broom. ON THE FARM

This Column Alone Cost Us More
Than $200. A Year. You Can Have it a Year for $2.00 and the Rest of the Paper for Nothing.

The era of the haphazard and careless horticulturist and agriculturist has passed away.

A mosquito bar affords good protection from mosquitoes, but a crow-bar doesn't protect a cornfield from a crow.

Late cabbage, late celery and other late crops may follow in the same ground where beans, peas and other early crops have grown.

The man who is producing milk for the city should have a clear mind, clean hands and a pure heart.

Go over the young apple trees and cut off every sprout with a sharp knife close to the trunk. Do it early, and they will heal this season.

The average farmer does not have enough poultry-house equipment for rearing the young and housing the laying flock.
Better and more buildings would cheapen
the cost of production.

On hot days you like to take a jug of cool water to the field with you. The team also will appreciate a cool drink in the field on hot days, so why not take along in the wagon an eight-gallon milk
can of water for the horses?

Sow patches of rape, wheat, barley or some other crops in or near the poultry runs for summer green forage unless you have abundance of tender pasture meat.
Lawn clippings are good green feed
for poultry in confinement.

A small amount of trimming out of surplus and diseased branches should be given all small and large fruits several times during the summer. If summer
pruning is carefully attended to there will
be less need of severe pruning at any one
time.

Give the poultry the same good regular attention you do other good stock and the birds will make money for you. So many expect poultry to shift for themselves and pick up all their living. Such persons are the ones who are sure there is no money in poultry.

A small amount of trimming out of surplus and diseased branches should be
given all small and large fruits several
times during the summer. If summer
pruning is carefully attended to there will
be less need of severe pruning at any one
time.

It is really surprising what a common cow will do in the way of giving milk, if she is fed abundantly all the time. If the common cow has absolutely all the nutri-tions she will consume twice daily and is otherwise well cared for, she will literally "pour down" the milk. The good grade or pure-bred cow can and will do better under the same conditions.

It is not always advantageous to plant the garden as early as possible. Under certain conditions nature hastens the growth of late-planted seeds so that the ripening does not accord with the difference in the time of planting. This is particularly the case when the season is late and rainy.

The dairy cow is a mysterious animal.
Just why it is that two cows stand side by side, eating the same feed in the same quantity, and one cow giving twice as much milk per day as the other, is a mystery to you, farmer. The seasonality of leather required in a pair of shoes is far more than in a pair of pants or overalls.
The diversion of so much leather into shoes reduces the available supply for the manufacture of pumps, making the number of pumps so much less, and increasing the market value of those made under the embarrassed conditions. The law of demand and supply acts immediately on changes of conditions, and the boot and shoe market is subject to natural, but not immediately recognized laws.

From the expressions of manufacturers and distributors, it is evident that the better the women become acquainted with white boots and shoes, the better they like them, and the few days have helped them to do so. It is believed that by another year white goods will have so gained in popularity and the wearers will have so learned how to keep them presentable, that as good a demand will be encountered in 1913 as this year; and possibly even better.

At present the sale of white canvas and white buck shoes is large. Southern people are showing an especial fondness for them, and distributors are reporting a very satisfactory market. The leather required in this industry will be supplied by the leather which will be required in the manufacture of the shoes.

Hay, to be at its best for feeding purposes, should be a close substitute for green grass. I have found by experience through several different harvests, and through assisting neighbors in hay harvest, that by cutting hay rather green and storing without damage by rain, it will come out of the mow as sweet and juicy like it was when it was cut, and when it is dry it will be tender, easily eaten, easily digested and nutritious.

The fresh and sweet aroma of well-cured hay, cut at the right stage, no doubt makes the animals relish it better.

The first point, in training the colt is to win its confidence if possible. If it is not possible to make close friendship with the young animal, then you must catch it and hold it by force, being as gentle as possible under the forcing conditions, and making the little animal feel that although you are master as to force, yet

you are doing it no harm and causing no pain. It will soon learn that, willing or unwilling on its part, you can make it do something you wish it to do. Always carry out your point in this line and give no chance for the colt to do it in any way.

Leave a lasting impression with it that you are master of the situation and can make it do exactly as you wish.

Repeat this at frequent intervals and it will come to believe that whatever you wish will be done.

This is a good time to can asparagus, as the beds are now giving up their choicest stalks or branches in greatest quantities.

A good way to can asparagus is to use a straight-sided quart glass jars, so that the stalks will not be broken. After canning the stalks the right length to fit the jars and washing them carefully in cold water, stand the stalks in the jars with heads and tails pointing out. Fill the jars with cold water slowly until it overflows
the stalks, not screwing the caps on half the height of the jars, then place it in the cold water for the water to heat the stalks.

When the stalks are cold, fill the jars
with boiling water, put on the rubber bands and keep the jars in a cool, dark place.

A Chicago judge informs chauffeurs that every one who does not stop when he hits a pedestrian will not get six months in jail; but how about the pedestrian he will probably get a 6 x 3 cell pending the final call.

We are asked to say something about dust. Some poet has said "dust thou art and to dust returnest." Legend says "every man must eat a peck of dirt" and the only thing we say about dust is you can discount the poet and the legend on Broad street and in many other places in Weymouth.

In answer to the several inquiries we have had this week as to when Weymouth celebrated the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of its settlement: we would say that the celebration took place on July 14, 1874, with the main events on King Oak Hill. We will give our readers next week extended details of that celebration and why it was in 1874.

The Fourth of July.

"Day we Celebrate" is drawing near and undoubtedly throughout the length and breadth of the land there will be a general celebration of the day. There is however always a variation in volume and character of the celebration in various localities and such will be the case for the 1912 in Weymouth.

There are plans on foot for special features in different parts of the town but present indications are that for magnitude the Landing will take the lead. A committee has been industriously at work soliciting funds for the occasion and the summer, E. W. Hunt, reports up to date some $100 with more in sight.

The plan of celebration as now outlined is a grand parade to be formed in the vicinity of and Washington square at 7:30 a.m. and cover the principal streets of the village in its march.

Will the field sports at 10 o'clock and water sports at 1:30 play out of hand engines, a band concert in Lincoln square at 3 o'clock and another in Washington square at 3:30.

The Emerson Shoe Co., band of Rockland, the Stetson Shoe Co. and other music has been secured and there will be a grand fireworks display in the evening.

Prizes will be awarded for the best outfit in the parade and the best decorations along the line. Look for other details in the Gazette and Transcript next week.

Orphans Hope Lodge A. F. & A. M.

The last meeting of Orphans Hope Lodge previous to the summer vacation was one of more than ordinary interest and largely attended not only by its own members but by visitors from abroad, notably among the latter was a large delegation from Wollaston Lodge, who came with greeting from that lodge and a present of three elegant candle sticks to take the place of those destroyed by the recent fire.

The presentation was by Wm. Bro. Charles E. Monroe and the response by W. M. Charlie E. Dunbar.

The work of the lodge for the evening was the third degree on four candidates and in the work the officers were assisted by W. M. C. E. Monroe and Captain Rose of Wollaston and W. M. L. Dagnon of Macedonian Lodge of Milton. The committee on health submitted an elaborate report which was accepted and adopted said report proposing quite a fine Masonic home for Orphans' Hope Lodge, South Shore Commandery K. T. and Iota Alpha Royal Arch Chapter. There are however, many things to be done before any construction will begin.

The Gerrish male quartette of Brockton enhanced the services of the evening with many fine selections.

Ought to Paint.

I ought to have painted last year, but I hated to pay $2.25 a gallon.

I've got to paint this year. It's take a little more paint; I suppose I'll be the same again, if I wait again.

What if paint goes down to $2 a gallon? $5 on the job!

I shant wait; what a fool I was!

Bell Ringing is an Art. said a master of the art. "It is called campanology, and there are abstruse and technical terms in it, like 'Kent treble solo,' 'Stedman changes,' 'double court solo,' 'dodges,' 'nolls,' and 'stingoes.' But it is not a science, it is a certain class or kind of bell ringing." In England there is a society, the Central Council of Bell Ringers, that every campanologist deserves ardently to belong to. Maybe you think bell ringing is simple? Is you know what a peal is? A peal in ringers' parlance is a series of 5,000 changes rung upon a single, no change occurring more than once."

Especially Arranged.

"It seems to me," he complained, "that you think entirely too much of our clothes."

"Oh, no, I don't, dear!" said Stella. "I should say so. When I told her about an accident in which a poor fellow lost both of his legs she said that that was too bad, as he would not be able to leave any footprint on the sands of time."—New York Herald.

What Next?

With all the graduations occupying so much time and attention this month is quite natural to wonder what so many graduates will do with life.

The word "commencement" is a fitting one because it expresses so well the state of affairs when school education is over. Up to that time the program has been largely a matter of other people's planning.

To primary and grammar school one goes because one must, the state requires it. To high school one goes because one's parents desire it; and fortunately the high school course is more and more regarded as an essential part of a child's preparation for life. To college one goes if one's parents can afford the expense, and here, too, we see a great increase in the enrollment.

But after graduation one must make a selection and step out into some form of activity. The period of preparation is over and quite suddenly the world at large expects some return for the privileges the graduate has enjoyed.

So for the first time in his life, it may be, he is thrown on his own responsibility. Henceforth he must map out for himself the course he will follow. No one can successfully do it for another.

His feeling at this time is a good deal like that of a child taking his first steps, and he clings to the things of the school, the old familiar aids to which he has been supported. Yet, while he dreams to start on an entirely new way, he would like to go on indefinitely in the old way. He would lose his liking for lessons if he must perpetually prepare them and never put his knowledge into practice.

The sober, elderly part of the world regards with tolerant amusement the enthusiasm of the graduate. His outlook on life is very rosy, fame and fortune are so near to him; failure is so foreign to his thoughts.

This is just as it should be and the world is all the better for whatever bony one who can be added from any source. People who are most hopeful are most likely to succeed.

The lesson of commencement for us older ones ought to be that we should profit by a similar process of change. To slough off old, outworn habits, to step forth bravely into new achievements, would give us a feeling of kinship with the graduate and possibly surprise us with its power to rejuvenate us.

"We're not dead yet," must be our slogan as we take up new problems and attack old ones. The sparkling enthusiasm of youth may be ours as long as we claim it. When we reach a point where we no longer desire it, we may be sure it will not intrude upon us.

EVELYN EARLE.

Spelling Shakespeare's Name.

E. H. Sothen in an article in a magazine on the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy gives the Baconians a sound drubbing. Because Shakespeare spelled his name in various ways the Baconians were pleased to refer to him as "the Bard." He is not.

Mr. Sothen says on the subject of the spelling of the name:

"This is one assertion that is not denied. It is also true that Sir Walter Raleigh, admittedly one of the most cultured men of the time, spelled his name 'Bauley,' 'Bauleigh,' 'Ralegh,' and 'Raleigh.' Sir Philip Sidney frequently spelled himself 'Sidney' which often ends in 'y'."—The Daylight.

Daylight's of Shakespeare's contemporaries and we find the same thing. Marlowe's name occurs in ten different spellings. Throckmorton's in sixteen. Gascoigne's in nineteen. Percy's in twenty-seven while Ben Jonson wrote his in almost every imaginable form."

A Good Review.

Spaniard was traveling from San Sebastian to Zarzur in a first class compartment with an American.

"Spaniards are a great nation," the American said. "But I can't understand how a nation that produced Velasquez and Valdes can stomach the savage cruelty of the bullfight."

He had a look at the man's black eyes at this, inhaled a great cloud of cigarette smoke and said:

"You have in America a number of societies for the prevention of cruelty to children. I believe?"

"Yes."

"And they do good work?"

"A splendid work!"

The good Spaniard showed his white teeth in a smile.

"Well, señor, such societies would be useless in my country," he said. "The man who would lift his hand against a little child has not been born in Spain."—Los Angeles Times.

Mental Twilight.

Mental health passes into mental disease just as the flesh passes into darkness. There is a mental twilight, a borderland in which it is impossible to say whether the patient is mentally ill or not. It is always well for a man who undergoes such changes mentally to consult his doctor, and it is always well for the doctor not to make too light of such a change because treatment is usually more difficult than diagnosis. The patient's mind is often so far gone that it has been fully developed. The best test of mental health is when a man feels a conscious sense of organic well-being, although many persons go through life with more or less of a sense of ill being all the time and are not that account to be regarded as insane.

MEN'S SUMMER SHIRTS $1.50

There are probably more men's shirts sold at $1.50 than at any other price.

There are undoubtedly more $1.50 shirts, or almost any price shirts sold in the store "just around the corner" than anywhere else in Quincy.

Shirts of madras and percale, pleated and plain negligee, with cuffs attached—in some cases these soft turned-back cuffs that are so comfortable for Summer. Designs are so good and so soft that you could select a dozen with your eyes closed and not get a honkey one. And every garment made over the roomy E. & W. pattern.

His Summer Shoes

They should be good looking and light in weight, yet made of leather that will give good service in these days, when walking is a pleasure. All virtues to be found in Radston Shoes.

Most of our farmers have commenced

the cutting of grass and have, in the main, good crops.

It often takes humpy ground years to get over one time of working it when too

wet. Can't afford that. We need the use of every foot of our land.

It is not a good plan to pasture the orchard with large animals. Hours may be wasted in trying to get a young orchard within reach of the animals.

mouth and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and impersonal communications cannot be returned unless the writer's name is enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fees are charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

Post office employees are thanked that the "Fifth Day" has been granted them as a Full Holiday and hope that the same may be done in years to come.

Our advice to the public for the Fourth is to be moderate in the use of alcohol due the "Gin-San" day. Don't look in the muzzle of the gun to see if it is going off;
don't blow on room candles and rockets to make the fire start; and don't get in the way of the many drivers by law or persons who know nothing of law, order and use of public highways.

In reply to the oft repeated question
"who is Evelyn Earle?" who was seen in the subway nameless with a large of Weymouth, we are sorry she is well known at the Landing and other parts of Weymouth. For reasons of her own she takes the above name as writer and by it or other means she has a good many articles written exclusively for this publication, are of growing interest to our readers.

Town Business.

The Monday's session of the board of selection was a busy one with the regular routine and special measures to discuss and dispose of.

The board received a petition from the New Eng. Tel. & Tel. Co. for a permit to locate a pole on Lincoln street, westward from Neely street and will give a hearing on the same.

A permit was granted to the Labor League, Incorporated of Quincy, to hold a picnic at New Downer Landing on July 29 and to the Newspaper Printers' Base Ball League to have a picnic at the same place July 20.

A license was granted to Albert C.
Chapman as Inn Holder at Fort Point
Hotel.

The Chief of Police was instructed to place a day officer on duty at Jackson square from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. also voted that the chief be instructed to cause no notices in regard to riding bicycles to be posted on the exterior of the law prohibiting riding on the same.

At the annual town meeting it was voted to experiment with water meters by placing fifty in commission, ten in each ward, as an experiment as to how many would be used, but to do so the Water Board had but a few people who are anxious to have their individual homes or factories used as experiment stations.

We are told that boating and fishing are sought after and the water supply is no longer induced in.

Summons has been served on the Water Board to appear in court next Tuesday for a hearing on the cases of the Town
vs. Alvin Hins and others for violation of law on relation to rates governing the water supply.
